What University Live and What Career Live

Welcome to the new Oriel Careers Newsletter. In these newsletters, we hope to keep you up to date with goings on in the careers landscape, and bring to you opportunities to get involved in virtual experiences that we can no longer offer in school.

With the UK enduring local and national lockdowns, Careers and Futures events up and down the country have had to either be postponed or have moved online. The new rules and restrictions create obstacles to all, and in particular to the Careers programme at Oriel.

Obviously there is no substitute for getting out into the work place or to university fairs, to talk with employers and higher education providers. However, a close second best is to be involved and research your future pathway virtually.

The end of this week sees the launch of the What University and What Career live virtual exhibitions. The exhibitions go

Virtual careers and university events
November 20 and March 2021

live on Friday 6th November from 10am-3pm, and then again on Saturday from 11am-3pm. Students and parents can register for the free event online at their website-

www.whatcareerlive.co.uk

Along with the chance to learn about different industries and employers, students can hear from universities about what they can offer post 18. Students and parents can engage in 1:1 advice about CVs, careers, universities (including those in the USA), and will be helpful in planning what to do after Sixth Form. The event will also host plenty of large companies, from local to multinational corporations, looking for their future talent. If that wasn't enough, there is the chance to enter competitions and win yourself some great prizes.

Remember— your future starts here with the research you do. Get involved and be proactive in deciding your future pathways. It is never too early to start your planning, as the end of year 13 comes around very quickly!

What Next Sussex

This event is held primarily with years 11/10, and their parents in mind. The event hosts lots of content on what to do next post 16 in the locality, including both vocational and educational pathways. The event videos will be available to watch next week with information on local opportunities and advice for those in Sussex. The videos will be available on this link: learnliveuk.com/partner/east-sussex-local-enterprise-partnership, or you can view the on-demand content on their website: www.getcareerconfident.co.uk/what-next-sussex-2/what-next-sussex-directory

You will be able to browse information about colleges, sixth forms, courses and qualifications and find out all about apprenticeships on offer. The website also has resources for parents and pupils designed for different age groups, with the aim of helping guide students through the transitions faced at ages 14, 16 and 18. You can find advice and templates on how to build a CV, and information about work experiences (virtual).

The content will remain online for a while, but be sure to act quickly as it is a fantastic resource to use.

Upcoming opportunities

In this section we hope to signpost some of the many opportunities that we receive information about.

This section will be devoted to both vocational and educational opportunities, such as virtual open days, information events, virtual work experiences, insight days, or even to high light key job opportunities and apprenticeships.

Some of these events may require a payment, particularly for industry specific experiences. Some will be free but will require you to be quick to gain a place, as most have limited spaces available.

So watch this space and act quickly!
